"What Is To Be Will Be."

"WHEN YOUR TIME COMES YOU WILL DIE."

While the above statements may be true in one sense of their meaning, in the sense in which they are used, and understood by many well meaning people, they are a misnomer. A fallacy.

FARMERS look to the FUTURE

Farmers can use wartime profits to bid up land values, or they can save it in Victory Bonds for better living and more efficient farms when the war is over. The only thing that can come of high land values is increased "overhead" operating costs and that might reduce the farm family income in the post-war years. From Victory Bonds can come "better homes and improved farm equipment—all of which will result in a more profitable and enjoyable farm life.

Mr. Farmer, will you be needing a new (truck) combine or tractor a few years from now? Very likely many of your farm implements are wearing out, and when the war is over you will want to replace them. In order to do this, many farmers are finding it were true there would be no need for human effort, no need to till the soil, sow and reap the golden grain that man might live an enjoy a fruitful and happy life while he remains on earth.

There would be no need to heed the danger signs, STOP! LOOK! LISTEN, placed at railway crossings to warn the travelling public to fast moving trains, no need to send missionaries to do the benighted people of other lands to fit them to enjoy a better life if these were true.

Life is real, but it is not an empty dream, and man has the power to reason, the power to deliver into the elements created by nature, and mold them into many forms useful to man.

If the belligerent nations had not used their energies to create implements of destruction, and taught their youth that they were a superior race, and born to rule, there would not have been a world war today.

And if the peace loving nations had heeded the warnings that came from some of their leaders, and prepared for war in time, this war might have been short ended by many months, if not averted altogether.

At this Peace conference now assembled fail to co-ordinate their efforts and remove the disturbing elements that cause war, as sure as night follows day, another and more destructive war will follow in the wake of the one now fast drawing to a close.

Attention Ball Players

On Sunday May 6th, there will be a Baseball game held at the grounds. The Teams which are to play are "Married Men" against "Single Men". The game is due to start at 2:30 o'clock. We hope there will be a good turn out.

GEM NEWS

There was a very friendly Silver Wedding held last Sunday in the M.B. Church. The Grateful were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Giromoni, Jr. There was very good choir singing, sufficient messages, and Quartets, solo's and some recitations. Above all a good supper was served.

Mr. Peter Enns and family who just recently moved to reside in Gardia B.C. will come back to Gem between now and Christmas. He will move in to Mr. C. Pitt's farm which he had chosen to buy for his future dwelling place. We wish him good success.

It is a good plan to lay aside a small amount each week or each month then, when the time comes for your purchase, the outlay will pass almost unnoticed. Victory Bonds provide a profitable and sure way to save for farm improvements or any post-war farm requirements.

Every farmer knows that farm machinery doesn't last forever. Many know too, that sometimes in the past when it has been worn out, they have been hard pressed to find money, to replace it. Wouldn't it be sensible therefore, to build up a fund of money against the day when that certain important piece of farm machinery might wear out. You bet it would! That's why most farmers buy and hold Victory Bonds. They're the best investment in bassano to keep cash savings until they are needed for post-war purchases.

Label Rules are Extended

Consumer protection against degradation of quality in ready-to-wear clothing is heightened through regulation of the Prices Board extending labelling and women's to practically all men's women's and children's clothing, regardless of date of manufacture.

After May 15, no retailer wholesaler or manufacturer may sell any ready-to-wear clothing which does not have a label or tag attached to show either the manufacturer's registered trade label or the Prices Board license number as well as the garment's line number and size. Wholesalers and retailers may substitute their own tag labels, providing they retain the manufacturer's license number on the label. Consumers with a complaint on price or quality have this label and license information by which the Prices Board can conduct an investigation.

"Lovers Of Pleasures"

One would expect the people on the home front to be solemnized by the mounting casualty lists from the war front, but such is not the case. While some are turning to God in their grief and anxiety, the majority are trying to drown their troubles in worldly pleasures.

Church attendance in general has shown no marked increase, but sports attendance has. Six of the leading sports last year attracted 240,000,000 spectators, an increase of 15 per cent over 1942.

The race tracks were more popular in 1944 than ever. There were 18 million people at the races, and betting totalled well over one billion dollars. It took a government order at New Year's to stop the people from wasting their time and money on horse racing, and now it has taken a government order to make people end their revelry in "night spots" by midnight. Lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God? (2 Tim. 3:4) certainly fits the people of this day.

Industries In Palestine

There are 50 shoe factories in Palestine with a capacity of 2,000,000 pairs of shoes per year; 16 hosiery factories with an annual capacity of 200,000 pairs of socks; and 23 knitted goods plants. Palestine has the only factory in the Middle East that manufactures newsprint; it is a new factory situated north of Tel Aviv. This is but part of the picture of Palestine's industries today.

The "Astrology Racket" A Record Year

Adolph E. Meyer, writing in the January American Mercury, gives an interesting report on what he terms the "Astrology Racket." He says that like American people are paying "starry-eyed seers" $300,000,000 annually to "smother their worries and woes" in reassuring mumbo-jumbo that Einstein himself would have a hard time following. The trade in horoscopes has become so profitable that it has developed into many different branches of astrology. "College" for students of astrology have been opened in New York, Illinois and California; and despite of the paper shortage the astrology journals are "venturing increasing in number." The Bible warns us against having anything to do with the astrologers, the star-gazers, the monthly prognosticators, or "an observer of times," as it calls them. Deut. 18:10; Dan 4:17! God condemns such practices. He wants to be the all-sufficient portion of His people.

Another Moslem Mosque

There are Moslem mosques in New Orleans, St. Louis, and Los Angeles and now the Mohammedans propose building another in Washington D.C.

Tainted Money

Says The Watchman-Examiner: "It is with heavy heart that we read that the Board of Directors of the YMCA and the YWCA of Rochester, N.Y. voted to accept a $10,000 contribution toward their fund from the Rochester Breweries Exchange. It becomes a scandal not only to Rochester but to the churches of the whole country" for all members of the Board belong to Protestant churches.

Now In 1'068 Languages

Some part of the Bible has been published in 1,068 languages and dialects, according to the American Bible Society. Six new languages appeared in print for the first time during 1944. Two of these were for Assam three for Africa, and one for 25,000 Indians in Colombia who now have the Gospel of Mark in Goujira (the first part of the Bible to be published in their own tongue).

A total of 12,403,541 copies of the Scriptures was distributed by the American Bible Society in 1944, breaking all previous records. This includes 823,857 whole Bibles which is 65 percent more than the previous maximum which occurred in 1933 when the Bible Society was undertaking to supply cash Bibles home in the U.S. with a Bible. The record is due largely to the many copies that have been supplied to the Army and Navy and Latin America.

Sun Worship In PERU

According to the Student Foreign Mission News, the sun still is worshipped in some places in Peru. "Each morning the natives gather together in an open place for the rising sun to strike upon a shield of beaten gold which they have faced to the east. When the first rays of the early sun strike the shield, they bow down and cry, O Sun, we worship thee as God—and if thou be not God, we worship Him who made thee." They are ready for a Pauline missionary to say, "Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, Him declare I unto you."

Man's Admission Of Guilt

Answers Magazine has conducted a survey to determine "the percentage of our people who obey the Ten Commandments." It reports that 49 percent have committed adultery or fornication, 68 percent have taken the name of the Lord in vain, and 48 percent of the people of America admit they have given false witness in keeping the seven other Commandments the people claim to a better record but surely this admission of guilt is sufficient to cause many to turn to Christ for forgiveness before God's judgment falls upon them personally!

How Many Promises

It often has been said that there are 30,000 promises in the Bible, but Keith L. Brooks read that there are only 21,273 verses in the entire Bible and this made him wonder so he went through the Bible and counted. He found there are 1,850 promises in the Old Testament and 1,018 in the New, making a total of 2,827 promises of good things which God has made to man. Many verses contain more than one promise. These 2,827 promises are contained in 1,959 verses.

OLD MAN SWARTZ

BY Abe Silverstein.

This book is copyrighted and for reprinting or translating and publishing wholly or partly permission must be obtained from the Author. The book itself can be obtained from us or from the Author Abe Silverstein, Box 903 Binghamton New York.

To be sure I had heard such talk many times before but Dr. Count had not and I was a little ashamed that the spitting, etc. should have occurred in his study and on his carpet, but Dr. Count is a good man and encouraged by his own descending smile I again turned to Mr. Swartz this time perfectly free and easy convinced that if the old man should even go so far in his demonstrations as to break chairs Dr. Count would have no objections, as he is a missionary himself, and a perfectly good fellow.

"Now, don't you think, Mr. Swartz, that a man must be given a chance to reply to such a host of questions? How can you expect me to answer you, if you keep on talking never giving me a breath of time? I see you are a learned man, and just because you are a learned man, you should—"

"Yes, I am a learned man," he interrupted me, "when only a child, three years old, I was sent to the 'Cheder' to live in a spiritual atmosphere, just like Samuel and when I was thirteen, and became 'Barmitzva'. I knew all the Psalms by heart, I also learned the Talmud and then—"

"Of course, of course, I know, Mr. Swartz and that is exactly why I expect you to give me an opportunity to answer all your questions. In the first place, let us have a little order in our conversation. As you already know, I am from America. The American people like order. Here is my watch; look at it. All I want of you is five minutes. Just five minutes. Mr. Swartz, without any interruptions on your part, and if you show you things that will astonish you—and all this in five minutes. Learned people, Mr. Swartz, always like to learn more even though it may come from a child. Learned people never say, 'I know it all' but are always willing to something new. Now, I have something new for you. My intention therefore is to tell you in these five short minutes what I believe and why I believe it."

"Yes, that is exactly what I wish to know," he asserted lastly.

And I continued: "Mr. Swartz will endeavor not to mention the New Testament to you, nor quote from it, because you do not believe in it. But I will read you from the Old Testament only, and you will permit me to change roles with you. That is, I will ask you some questions and you, as a more scholarly man, will answer them. And now, let us begin first with the coming of the Messiah."

I reached for and opened The Hebrew Old Testament and added: "Before reading anything from the Old Testament let me suppose that I am not a Christian that there never was a person called Jesus Christ, and that you and we are plain, everyday Jews who have now come together to look up what our Jewish Bible says concerning the Promised Messiah. Let us therefore begin with Genesis, right here, as you see, in the 48th chapter and the 10th verse. Let us look at it together and read it. The scripture shall not depart from Judah, nor a law-giver from between his feet, until Shiloh come; and unto Him shall the gathering of the people be! And Shiloh according to Rashi's great commentary of the Jewish Script, is none other than the promised Messiah. And here we have a promise of the Messiah and the time of His arrival. In the first place, therefore, we learn from this verse that the Messiah will come after the Jewish people have ceased to rule the nation, that is when the Jews will be as they are now, a scattered race without a king or savior. And in the second place we will be able to know by the sign set forth in this same prophecy, namely, that the nations will gather unto Him or worship Him. Do you agree with this, Mr. Swartz?"

"Yes, that sounds logical."

"Do the Jews have a scepter now?"

"No."

"Do you have any lawgivers now?"

"No."

"Then the scepter and the lawgiver have departed?"

"Yes," he answered, nodding his head approvingly.

"Then let me ask you, where is that promised 'Shiloh'? This verse speaks very clearly of his positive coming at that time. Where is he to whom the gathering of the people will be? If He has not come, as predicted in this verse, then either Father Jacob who uttered this verse or Moses who quotes him is wrong.

We cannot look at it in a different light. If we now turn our attention to the time when the scepter of the Jews actually departed and the lawgivers were composed of Roman officials instead of the Old Hebrew sages who used to lead down and interpret the law and judge the children of Israel; if we should as I said, go back to that time when the long exile of the Jews as a nation began, and which now has lasted twenty centuries, we will find that according to Josephus Flavius, the Jewish Historian, a certain Joshua Hazzana (Jesus of Nazareth) a Jewish carpenter, rose and proclaimed Himself to be the Messiah of the world. And strange to say, the nations of the world began to gather 'unto Him' just as Jacob's prophecy says. Is it not important, Mr. Swartz, that we stop and consider these momentous questions? Would it not be a terrible thing if we should be any means have rejected the real Messiah, mistaking Him for an impostor?"

Two or three minutes passed in silence before my friend raised his eyes from the book, and then slowly and doubtfully, he said:

"But, my boy here is where you are altogether wrong. It is not your 'Joshua of Nazareth' referred to here, but 'Joshua' son of Nun, who, after the death of Moses, the lawgiver, undertook to lead the children of Israel into the land of Canaan. Moses was a lawgiver and his rod the scepter and when both departed Joshua came to the foreground, taking his place and thus fulfilling this prophecy. Why, my good man, you are twisting the Scriptures to suit yourself. I tell you, this refers to Joshua or Jesus, 'the son of Nun,' and not to your Jesus, 'the son of Joseph.'"

Use of Sulfa Drugs May be Dangerous

Live-stock owners who have heard of some of the benefits from the use of sulfa drugs in treating livestock ailments have been reminded by the veterinary authorities that there is also a dangerous side to the use of these drugs. Through their improper use, the following are some of the results—degeneration of liver cells, damage to kidney tubes, depletion of bone marrow necrosis of muscles, and in some instances hemorrhages. The authorities point out that these are not common occurrences but they may result when sulfa drugs are used by persons who do not know their proper application and limitations. The only safe way is when the drugs are used under the direction of a veterinary officer.

Proper Way to Cut Potatoes for Seed

What is the best way to cut potatoes when it comes time to plant them? They should not be cut into too many pieces, nor planted in too large chunks.

The proper way to cut potatoes for seed is to divide them into blocky seed pieces weighing from an ounce and a half to two ounces each and with each piece containing two eyes. The tuber's seed end, which contains the most eyes should be split.

The number of seed pieces which should be cut from any potato depends on its variety and on its size. For example a six to eight ounce tuber should make four seed pieces. A five ounce tuber can be cut into three pieces—two from the seed end and the other, the stem end of the tuber.

Points Connected With Wheat Supply

In discussing the world wheat situation the Monthly Review of the Wheat Situation says it is becoming increasingly apparent that a distinction must be drawn between total supply and effective supply. In appraising the supplies of wheat in North America which are available for export overseas attention must be paid both to the position of these wheat stocks and the availability of rail, lake, and ocean transportation facilities. An additional factor limiting flour exports is, of course the capacity of the domestic flour mills. Flour mills in both Canada, the United States are booked to capacity for months ahead. Adequate supplies of wheat exist in Canada, the United States and Argentina to meet the needs of importing countries. The more immediate problems are in connection with the transportation and processing of wheat to meet these needs.

THEY slog ahead with the dirt and anguish of modern war.

They slog ahead—reduce another pillbox—capture another village.

They keep on driving the enemy back until he breaks.

And what of us at home? In comfort, safe, clean, without fear of sudden death or wounds. Sometimes happy enough, but still worried. And we want to help. We'd like to be in there with them until it's over and then come home together. Few of us can do that but surely we can help. We have helped before by buying Victory Bonds and we can do that again. We
